REDS QUIZZED IN PROBE OF POLK SLAYING

Sure Communists Killed CBS Broadcaster, Says Greek Government Official.

By The Associated Press

SALONIKA, GREECE, May 17—Twenty or more Communists were reported under questioning today in the strange death of George Polk, American broadcaster for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Polk's bound up body, a bullet in the head, was found floating in the bay of Salonika yesterday.

"We are 1,000 per cent sure it is the work of Communists," said one leading government official who declined to allow the use of his name.

Polk was last seen a week ago Sunday when telling friends he was going to interview Markos Vafiades, Communist guerrilla leader. He was 34.

Police were reported authoritatively to be working on a theory Polk made contact with the Communist underground and spent several hours in a hideout before being shot through the head and dumped into the bay.

A high police official discounted the theory that right wing extremists might have killed Polk when they heard of his effort to meet Vafiades. Polk had criticized the government as well as the guerrillas.

Wife Voices Theory

Mrs. Rhea Polk, the Greek girl Polk married eight months ago, said her husband might have argued with an underground guide and been shot.

"He had a terrible temper," Mrs. Polk said. "I think he may have got mad. He talked back to anybody."

(Carl Rankin, U. S. charge d'affaires, called on Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris in Athens and was understood to have received a report on the Polk investigation. Tsaldaris was reported to have told Rankin every effort will be made to arrest the killers.)

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis announced he had ordered a full investigation and Constantin Rentis, the minister of public order, undertook to conduct it.

Dead Probably 7 Days

Yesterday morning Polk's body floated ashore along Salonika's Nikis (Victory) boulevard, the city's fashionable promenade. Apparently fearing an international incident police concealed for several hours the fact Polk had been shot in the back of the head. His hands and legs were bound with wire.

The coroner estimated the body had been in the water seven days.

Police officials said they were hunting for suspected Communists with whom Polk, a Navy veteran cited for heroism, might have made contact in trying to reach Vafiades. The rebel redio lately has been calling all Americans "fascist beasts."

In Athens, however, a close friend of Polk's said the CBS correspondent had received several threatening telephone calls, in which the callers accused him of being a Communist, indicating that anti-Communists might have desired his death.

Wife Reports Premonition

Polk's bride of eight months said her husband had a feeling he was going to die.

"He felt," she said, "he had had every experience in life and there was no new goal to look forward to."

She said he had been threatened by both Arabs and Jews in Palestine, but never, so far as she knew, in Greece. He has been the Near middle east correspondent for CBS for two years.

Polk's Body Identified By Former Marion Man

An Associated Press dispatch from Greece reported Waide M. Condon of Salt Lake City, Utah, former Marion man, identified the body found in the water as that of Polk.

Condon and Polk were acquainted through Condon's work as a representative of the United States information service.

Condon started in newspaper work with the old Marion Tribune about 30 years ago. After serving as managing editor of the tribune, he went to Salt Lake City, where he was employed on the editorial and news staffs of newspapers before entering government service.

He is the son of the late Frank Condon, for many years an Erie railroad conductor. His mother, Mrs. Ida Condon, is now a resident of Mansfield. The family lived on South Prospect street in this city.

GEORGE POLK

U.S. SERGEANT IS SPY VICTIM

Wiles of Russian "Mati Hari" Lure Him from Embassy Post.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—Only Russian officials knew the fate today of a 21-year-old U.S. Army sergeant who deserted his embassy post in Moscow and fled with a female Russian spy who seduced him with all the wiles of a Mata Hari.

In a way the story of his downfall is as old as history. But what made it unusual was the fact that the state department called a special press conference last night to announce details of its latest spy drama.

The principle characters are:

Sgt. James M. McMillin, U.S. Army, age 21, of Boulder, Colo., who had been attached to the office of the military attache in the U.S. embassy in Moscow for two years. He was described in the state department as a "young, inexperienced" American who fell into the hands of, presumably, a lovely spy, Mrs. Galina Dunaeva Biconish, a Soviet citizen who is described by the state department as "an experienced Soviet agent." Once before she lured another inexperienced American Army sergeant, John Biconish, with her charms and married him. But he escaped what state department officials said was a fate worse than death and is now in this country.

Held Minor Job

Young McMillan's embassy job was a minor one and officials here did not know if he had access to any important papers during his affair with the accomplished Mrs. Biconish.

The state department's formal announcement confined itself, of course, to the essential facts—that on May 15, McMillin notified the embassy in Moscow of his refusal to return to the United States on that date under orders and of his intention to remain in the Soviet union. He said nothing about the female spy, but officials quickly made available the details about her.

The United States, it was learned, does not intend to ask the Soviet government for McMillin's return. But if he ever leaves Russia he will face court martial for desertion from the U.S. Army.

No Further Word

The case was similar to that of the young Pennsylvania girl, Miss Annabel Bucar, who quit the embassy in Moscow in February after announcing she had married a Soviet citizen. Nothing has been heard of her since, despite official inquiries. And nothing has been heard of McMillin since he packed his bags at midnight on May 14 and disappeared with the woman for whom he had given up the country of his birth.

State Department Spokesman Lincoln White, accustomed to dealing in complicated foreign policy matters, was somewhat flustered as he gave the special press conference the details of this sex-spy drama.

U.S. officials said it was a simple case of "seduction and exploitations" by an "experienced" Soviet agent of a young inexperienced American in a strategic spot.

Just "Inexperience"

McMillin obviously took this action, they said, not as a result of any political ideas, such as communism, "but of youthful, inexperienced infatuation and attachment to a Soviet married woman with whom he has secretly carried on relations for some time."

McMillin's decision to make this supreme sacrifice of his country in favor of the Soviet woman apparently was precipitated by the fact that his two-year period of service in Moscow had expired and he had been ordered to leave for the United States on May 15.

Taft Leads in Poll, Dewey, Stassen Trail

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, May 17—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio holds a sturdy lead today in pledged delegates to the Republican presidential convention, now five weeks away.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is a strong second with Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota running behind in third place.

A poll by International News Service shows the first ballot strength of the "big three" in the GOP race to be:

Taft, 301 delegates; Dewey, 256 delegates; Stassen, 134 delegates.

Republican followers of "dark horse" possibilities and "favorite son" candidates now hold the balance of power in the June 21 convention. There are no signs however of any concerted move by these groups either to one of the "big three" or to one of their own number.

With "favorite sons" eliminated, Sen. Taft will gain more delegates than either Gov. Dewey or Mr. Stassen but will still remain far short of the nomination. The INS poll shows, that with "favorite sons" out of the way, the "big three" would have:

Taft, 393 delegates; Dewey, 283 delegates; Stassen, 157 delegates.

Deadlock Indicated

This indicates there will be a deadlock in the early balloting at the convention.

Mr. Stassen has made some slight gains in recent weeks against both Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey but he has aroused widespread animosities in so doing.

Both Taft and Dewey leaders say they will never consent to Stassen's nomination. This sentiment badly handicaps the efforts of Stassen's leaders to gain second choice pledges if Taft and Dewey are beaten.

There has been much talk of Taft and Dewey "getting together" on a "dark horse" if they cannot win the nomination. There has been no move yet in this direction but it is not beyond the realm of possibility.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, and Speaker Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, lead the "dark horse" field. In the background are Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

There are some signs that Pennsylvania may hold the key to the convention. Numerous Pennsylvania leaders have said that the state's 73 delegates would go to Speaker Martin after a few "favorite son" ballots for their senator, Edward Martin.

Pennsylvania Pivotal

In recent weeks, there have been rumors that Pennsylvania might prefer Sen. Vandenberg. Either way, the Pennsylvania delegation would give its preferred "dark horse" a terrific boost.

On the other hand, a Pennsylvania bolt to Taft would about settle the outcome. A similar move to Dewey could well start a stampede that would end in the New Yorker's nomination.

"Favorite sons" seem to be out of the running. Their present strength is: Senator Martin, of Pennsylvania, 73 delegates; Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois, 56; Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, 35; Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, 35; Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, 29; Sen. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, 19; and former Sen. John G. Townsend of Delaware, 9.

The "dark horses" have this first ballot strength: Warren, 55 delegates; Vandenberg, 45; MacArthur, 9, and Speaker Martin 4.

ATOMIC TESTS SUCCESSFUL

Report Made to Truman on Weapons of Improved Design.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17—The White House said today tests involving three atomic weapons of improved design proved successful in all respects recently at Eniewetok atoll in the Pacific.

The statement was made that the Atomic Energy Commission gave President Truman an official report saying the results "indicate very substantial progress."

Chairman David E. Lilienthal and the four other commissioners reported orally to Mr. Truman that the "present stage of the commission's tests of atomic weapons is now concluded."

Lilienthal called the tests "a milestone in atomic development."

The White House statement follows:

"The President today received from the United States Atomic Energy Commission a report on tests of atomic weapons conducted at the commission's proving ground Eniewetok atoll in the Marshall islands. The tests were held pursuant to approval of the President given in June, 1947. The first series of the tests are now completed.

"The commission reported that the tests involving three atomic weapons, each of improved design, was successful in all respects, and that the results indicate very substantial progress. The President gave general approval of commission plans for steps it proposed to initiate at once for further nuclear development, based upon information gained from the tests.

"As previously announced by the commission, the tests were conducted under the security provisions of the Atomic Energy act, and information as to the scientific results and technical details of the tests cannot be made public at his time. The area of the proving ground, as previously defined, remains closed to unauthorized persons.

"The secretary of national defense and the Atomic Energy commission have authorized statements of acknowledgment of services of the personnel engaged in the tests, for release by the military and scientific leaders of the project upon their return to Honolulu tomorrow."

STRIKE CLOSES PLANTS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 17 — Two National Carbon Co. plants were shut down today by a walkout of 2,400 employes after the firm withdrew recognition of the CIO United Electrical Workers Union because of union officials' refusal to file non-communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley act.

STRIKE THREAT OF 225,000 IS HEARD BY GM

Possible Walkout in 90 Plants Indicated; Ford Co. Asks Pay Cut.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 17—The CIO United Auto Workers threatened today to call a strike of 225,000 General Motors employes within two weeks.

This threat came against a backdrop of a strike at Chrysler Corp. and an unexpected move by the Ford Motor Co. to cut wages.

T. A. Johnstone, acting director of the UAW's General Motors department, said there is "a very good possibility" of a walkout in 90 GM plants May 28 if no settlement is reached by then.

"Our people probably aren't going to work if there's no contract," he added.

The current UAW-GM contract, extended 30 days, expires May 28. Nearly half of the General Motors union locals already have approved a strike, according to Johnstone.

Would Be 300,000 Idle

A walkout at General Motors would boost the auto industry's strike total to 300,000. Some observers believe the union would be reluctant to strike two of the industry's "big three" companies at the same time. Ford's proposal met a crisp CIO rejection.

Chrysler, meanwhile, accused pickets of forcibly preventing white collar workers from entering some of its 16 strikebound plants.

Here are some of the developments on the many-sided auto labor front, affecting up to half a million workers at least indirectly:

►The Ford Motor company, pleading a cause of "public security," proposed that its wage "differentials" with competitors be eliminated, meanwhile rejected the UAW's demand for a 30 cents hourly increase.

Union Gives Tart "No"

The bulk of Ford's 107,000 production workers probably would be affected in any reduction of pay rates. Ford's pay is said to be roughly about 10 cents higher than the pay of rival firms.

The union, in a tart rejoinder, said "no," though offering to drop its wage wemand if Ford would "successfully" exert its influence to secure a national price rollback to cut the cost of living.

►The strike of 75,000 Chrysler workers for a 30 cents an hour increase entered its sixth day without a sign of a peace offering from either side. The UAW calls this the nation's "most important" labor battle. Ford local 600 voted the Chrysler strikers a defense fund of $125,000.

►An estimated 10,000 to 12,000 General Motors workers approved a strike for a 25 cents an hour increase. The UAW is currently polling its 225,000 GM members on the strike question.

Whatever the outcome, all the industry's 500,000 or more workers likely would be affected in establishment of any new wage pattern.

The effect on other industry might also be a pronounced one.

Cites "Public Security"

Ford made its proposals in suggestions "top priority" be given to the "objective of public security" in forthcoming negotiations.

John S. Bugas, vice president and director of industrial relations, told the UAW that this was a "responsibility" of both union and company "in the light of present conditions."

The UAW's wage demands would raise costs and "compel" a price increase on Ford products, Bugas said.

High School Essay Contest Serial Begins in Star Today

Today on page 4 The Star begins publication of "Men of Erie," a history of the Erie railroad which is to be the subject of an essay contest in which high school students of Marion county are invited to participate. The contest is open to high school students of city, county and parochial schools.

The history, a condensation of Edward Hungerford's book, "Men of Erie," will run through this week in The Star in six daily installments. From these installments the contestants are to get the material for their essays of not more than 1,000 words each.

Writers of the two essays chosen as the best by a board of three impartial judges will be awarded a three-day vacation in New York City starting July 11 with all expenses paid by the Erie railroad, which has arranged the contest in cooperation with the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

Essays are to be submitted to the Marion Chamber of Commerce, 116 North State street, on or before May 29, one week after publication of the final installment.

Marion has an outstanding role in the contest, as this is one of most important points on the entire Erie system. In the condensed history to be published in The Star, Marion readers will find much of local interest, including accounts of the vital functions performed here in the Erie's operations and also the notable service of President Robert E. Woodruff, a former Marion resident.

Don't miss any of the installments, starting today.

SAY EGYPTIANS WITHIN THIRTY MILES OF CITY

Advance 34 Miles Into Palestine; Israel's Army Drives Into Lebanon.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, May 17—The Arab higher executive committee said today Egyptian troops have driven within 30 miles of Tel Aviv after an advance of at least 34 miles into Palestine.

The office said also the Jewish agency has authorized the surrender of Jews in the old city of Jerusalem to the Arab volunteer command.

The "conditions of surrender" provide the Jews give up their arms, that men be considered prisoners of war and that women and children be handed over to the International Red Cross, it said.

The office, quoting a communique from the Middle East broadcasting station, said Syrian and Iraqi troops have joined forces in the Samakh area at the southern tip of the sea of Galilee. The town, reported captured by the Syrians, is two and a half miles inside Palestine from both Syria and Trans-Jordan.

The Arabs claimed also to have seized the Rutenburg power station at the confluence of the Yarmuk and Jordan rivers. King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan asserted the station supplied two-thirds of Jewish industry in Palestine.

Report Planes Seized

The United States embassy here said yesterday the Egyptian air force confiscated four C-47 transport planes which the Trans-World airline had agreed to sell to Saudi Arabia.

American sources reported Saudi Arabia had outbid Egypt for six surplus TWA planes and two of the planes already had been delivered to Arabia. S. Pinkney Tuck, U. S. ambassador, asked Premier Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha to review the Egyptian move. The premier had approved the seizure.

The Egyptian government later advised the embassy it will undertake to pay for the four seized planes and will try to reach an agreement with Saudi Arabia.

Israel's Army Drives Into Lebanon

By The Associated Press

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL, May 17—Israel's army said today it has struck seven miles into Lebanon and destroyed a strategic bridge. It declared also the Arab city of Acre, 12 miles south of the Lebanese-Palestine frontier, "is expected to surrender at any moment."

Planes bombed Tel Aviv for the third successive day. Haganah, the army, said several bombs were dropped at 5 a. m. The attack appeared aimed at the port area by a light or medium bomber and one other plane. At least 10 persons were killed from the air on Saturday and Sunday.

Moshe Shertok, foreign minister, acknowledged heavy Arab pressure in the northeast and south. The Egyptians were pressing into the Negeb, or southern desert, an the Iraqi army was striking in the northern Jordan valley, he said.

Haganah said 31 Egyptians had been killed in a two-day battle for Nerim, southernmost Jewish settlement in the Negeb, and 200 enemy soldiers had been killed and wounded at Milikya, near the Jewish state's northeastern border with Lebanon.

(A Syrian army communique issued in Damascus last night said the volunteer Arab liberation army had recaptured Milikya from the Jews.)

Newark Girl Shot At Buckeye Lake

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, O., May 17—A 17-year-old high school girl was in critical condition today with rifle wounds suffered in an accidental shooting at nearby Buckeye lake.

Sheriff's deputies said Betty Stevens, a Newark High school senior, was shot in the abdomen yesterday with a .22 caliber rifle held by a male companion.

Deputy John Koontz said the accident occurred in the Park's shooting gallery when Richard Lehman, 20, Miss Stevens' companion, sought to load the rifle.

Lehman, a soldier, was home on furlough and had accompanied Miss Stevens to the park.

School Prom In Spotlight

Upper Sandusky School Event Draws National News Attention.

Juniors and seniors of the Upper Sandusky High school will step into the news spotlight when the activities of tonight's annual prom are told in pictures by a nationally known magazine. On the scene this afternoon is a protographer from Look magazine and tonight another will arrive from the magazine's New York headquarters to take pictures of the prom and the events which will end with a breakfast tomorrow morning served by none other than "Aunt Jemima" herself from the Quaker Oats Co. The 86 seniors and approximately 100 juniors will participate in the night's events.

Starts at 9 P. M.

The prom gets under way at 9 o'clock tonight at the school and at midnight the party will be guests of the management of the Star theater for a lunch and show. Following the theater the young people will be guests for open house at various homes in the town and community and, weather permitting, there will be a swimming party at the city's park. The breakfast to be served by "Aunt Jemima," who will be assisted by some of the mothers of the young people will be served in the school cafeteria at 6 a. m. tomorrow.

The school drew nationwide attention last year when the junior-senior prom plan was originated by the school. This year a number of other cities, including Mansfield and Defiance, are planning similar activities.

Originator of Plan

The idea originated with Supt. Charles Davis as a plan to keep the young people interested in entertainment at home rather than motoring to other cities for theater parties and breakfast. Seeing in it a cure for the annual headache of fear of motor accidents, parents and the community not only approve but cooperate in the plan by helping out in every way possible.

Some months ago Supt. Davis was contacted by Look magazine to work out plans for photographing the unique prom story and breakfast plans were completed several weeks ago.

Supt. Davis, L. H. Houpt, principal of the school, are being assisted by Frederick Fleeman and Charles Hood, science teachers, who are sponsors for the junior and senior classes respectively. The school faculty assisted by some of the parents will be chaperones for the night.

TAFT URGES ARMS BY UN FOR ISRAEL

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 17—A cheering, flag-waving Zionist rally last night heard Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) propose that the United Nations use armed force "to prevent aggressions against Israel."

Speaking to a crowd that packed Madison Square Garden, the contender for the Republican presidential nomination also urged:

That the United States lift immediately its embargo on the shipment of arms to the Middle East.

That the UN Security council "recognize the new state of Israel and give it membership in the United Nations."

"We must urge the use of a United Nations armed force," Taft said, "to prevent aggression against Israel when that occurs."

He added that such action may come "too late to prevent bloodshed."

"If all else fails," he said, "we have some economic pressures of our own we may have to use."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

There is a complaint from a woman who got a telephone three days ago that she hasn't had a single call from a quiz program.

She says "I am badly in need of a new automobile, house, diamond wrist watch and tour of South America and if they don't call me very soon I'll call them!"

It's getting so that people are beginning to think it was Bert Parks and not Don Ameche who invented the telephone.

Even when the President is on now, Republicans keep waiting for the jackpot question.

But the feeling seems to be that radio is passing through a phase from which it will recover just as soon as there are as many musicians as merchants working in it.

I hear Petrillo has secretly advised his boys to take a night course in refrigerator installation if they hope to get a network spot.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — CANCER ... [illegible] ... but the ... [illegible] ... for a safer present state. Here in the best way yet known to ... doctors ... detection and treatment.

A large share of the American Cancer Society's $2,000,000 budget last year went for the establishment of ... and the distribution of factual information on the disease that kills one person every three minutes in this country.

Hal Boyle

Since last September some 135,000 requests have been received at the society's national headquarters here for information on cancer and its seven danger signals.

About 85 per cent come from women," said Russell G. Smith, "and the question they ask most often is where they can obtain an examination."

The requests are referred to medical chairmen in each state who direct them to the nearest detection center. The society has 200 of these centers and is creating more.

A common source of disappointment to many seeking to check whether they have cancer is the time required for examination. The disease, particularly when it attacks internal organs, is often difficult to diagnose. Yet it is this type which causes most deaths. Ninety per cent of skin cancers are regarded as curable if treated early.

MANY OF THE LETTERS are touching in their simple pleas for help or their sublime bravery.

"My throat seems like it is full of something," wrote one uneducated man. "Make me want to hark it out but I can't hark it out. And at night it seems to want to stifle me in my sleep. I want to no if you can give me something to clear up my throat."

Another elderly man, told by his doctor he was beyond cure, sent in a contribution toward further research with the simple wish "it may help a luckier fellow."

Daily letters come giving suggestions on the cause and cure of the disease on which scientists have been working for centuries.

Two girls, 11 and 12, wrote: "We believe that the organism breeds in coal mines and is carried to the people by the miners tracking on coal dust."

AN OLD WOMAN'S contribution:

"I had an unusual dream which may turn out to be a help to mankind. I dream that the serum from the milkweed was a cure for cancer." Another was sure sheep sorrel weed would help.

One man suggested cures could be obtained by draining out all the afflicted persons blood and replacing it with new blood. Another said he heard of a cancer being cured by tying a live toad on it. The cancer, he said, dissolved the toad—and the toad dissolved the cancer. Still another recommended drinking the blood of a strange Brazilian animal immune to poison. He didn't mention the name of the animal.

THESE "REMEDIES" are generally ... old wives' tales to cancer researchers, explored long ago. But the suggestions are passed on to medical authorities for what they are worth.

The society emphasizes that cancer is not due to a germ, isn't inherited and isn't contagious or communicable. Warning against quacks who exploit cancer victims who grasp at any straw of hope, it points out that the disease is merely the uncontrolled growth of cells of body tissues and says:

"There is no salve, ointment, radium water, mineral water, liquid medicine, pill, Indian charm or needle injection that has ever cured a proved case of internal cancer.

"Surgery, X-ray and radium, alone or in combination, when used by recognized men of medicine are the only effective methods of treating cancer at present."

Men of Erie

Years of Planning Preceded Launching of Erie in 1835

CHAPTER I

"Dream of the Erie"

WHILE DeWitt Clinton hardly could be reckoned as a founder of the Erie, it was this great governor of the State of New York who had much to do with the inception of the road. He was the father of the mighty water-highway, the Erie Canal.

Only crusty old John Stevens had the audacity to poke fun at the governor and his canal scheme. He was an engineer of renown, and, in 1826, he built and operated a tiny toy-like steam locomotive on the grounds of his estate. In opposition to DeWitt Clinton he said, at less cost he could build a railroad across New York State which would run all the months of the year, and that it would transport freight and passengers more cheaply than any canal.

While this old squabble of more than a century ago is now buried, the basis for it plagued the budding railroad for years . . . concept, route, backing and construction.

* * *

THE IDEA OF A DIRECT through route from the lower Hudson to the Great Lakes would not die. William C. Redfield did his best to make it come true. In 1809 he moved out into the Western Reserve, and his detailed diary of the trip led him to plan definitely for a direct railroad into western New York and Northern Ohio. He was only a boy of 20 at the time. He returned to New York and became a successful merchant there, but his enthusiasm for a railroad never flagged. Boldly, he came out for it in a year when the Iron Horse barely had been foaled. The "Stourbridge Lion" was timidly turning its wheels at Honesdale, Penna.: the first locomotive in America.

Redfield's proposed route followed rather closely the present main line of Erie, and his remarkable plan, once printed and distributed, attracted wide attention. Slowly, but surely, the ambitious Erie Railroad scheme came into being.

The first of many "railroad conventions" along the projected route was at Monticello in Sullivan county. Three months later, another was held at Jones Tavern, Jamestown, in Chautauqua county. It was in this meeting that the precedent for stormy sessions was set for the Erie. The original bone of contention was jealousy of the towns which were benefitting by increased trade, due to the Erie Canal. The canny men of the Southern Tier of counties would have nothing to do with any town which was served by the canal. Buffalo, now an important terminal of Erie, was then regarded with jaundiced eye. A political ring in Albany was protecting the water way. This was so true that President Andrew Jackson who had been asked for federal funds to aid Erie construction, rescinded favorable legislation for an amazingly blunt reason. He said that he had been informed by a member of the "canal ring" in the state capital that such a road would compete with the canal, "thus making it impossible to manage the politics of the state as well as they are managed now."

* * *

THE MOST IMPORTANT of the early "conventions" met on Dec. 20, 1831. Delegates came from all the Southern Tier counties from Broome to Chautauqua, 85 all told in addition to some guests invited from New York City. This so-called Southern Tier is composed of that row of counties on the Pennsylvania border. The struggle at this meeting resulted in real progress.

Philip Church was the patron saint of the Genessee valley. He was in charge of the big meeting at Owego, out of which the Erie was born. The delegates were called to order in comparative serenity, but the aura of peace was short-lived. The majority of those present wanted two corporations to build the Erie; one in the East and the other in the West. Church wished otherwise, and had the loyal support of delegate Marvin of Chautauqua.

Seemingly making no headway against the dominant majority, Church forthwith resigned and left the hall. The entire convention was in a state of confusion when a letter from Eleazar Lord arrived. It was filled with hard sense, and supported the idea of having one charter embrace the entire road through to Lake Erie. That letter finally compelled the Owego convention to agree with Church.

On July 19, 1833, under moderated legislation, the Erie officially was organized. The officers were elected, with Eleazar Lord as the first president.

Despite its radiant beauty, the country beyond Orange county was all but poverty-stricken. At that time (1834) there was not one town on the line of the proposed New York and Erie with a population of more than 3,000 persons. Because of the rough route, the directors claimed, "it is to be considered that a railway for horses on the route in view would be superior . . . to any existing or probable means of communication . . ."

* * *

THIS WAS the beginning of railroading in America, and although there were short lines in New England, the New York and Erie was by far the most ambitious. Still, there was little precedent on which to build. When Benjamin Wright, who was employed to map out a route, completed his survey, he estimated the cost of the road, of single track construction for 483 miles from Piermont-on-Hudson to Lake Erie, at $4,726,260. His figure included grading the roadbed at the outset for a double track the entire length, as well as double tracking the bridges. However, the bridges were to be only 18 feet wide, for Wright said, "I did not think so much weight as two trains of loaded cars, passing different ways, should be permitted to pass on a bridge at the same time."

Financial difficulties which beleaguered the dream of the Erie postponed the first breaking of ground. In the wave of discontent, Eleazar Lord resigned as president, and James Gore King took his place. King was a New York banker, and the Southern Tier, under Philip Church, distrusted him. Church felt that if the New York and Erie were too hard pressed, it would not complete the entire line, but go to Rochester and there connect with the canal. He said bluntly that he refused to become a party to selling out the westernmost counties of the State in this cavalier fashion.

* * *

THE FUNDAMENTAL rightness of this position was shown when the New York and Erie finally announced that, come hell or high water, it would stick by its original plan of building all the way from Piermont to Dunkirk on Lake Erie, with only slight deviations from the Wright survey. The dream of the railroad was on the upswing in the fall of 1835, and sufficient money was subscribed to make possible the shift from concept to practicalities. Preparations were made for the immediate breaking of ground for the new enterprise.

The on-line towns were most interested, and had fought hard against the Canal Ring in Albany. For this reason, the little town of Deposit, N. Y. was chosen for the opening ceremony. On Nov. 7, 1835 the Erie was born.

* * *

TOMORROW: "Building the Erie"; exciting days of railroad pioneering.

FLOWER CLUBS JOIN IN WORKSHOP HERE

161 Attend Event at First Ev. Reformed Church.

Five Marion Garden ... participated in a flower show workshop held Friday at First Evangelical and Reformed church with 161 members present. Mrs. U. A. Nystrom was general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Lowell Gompf, representing the House and Garden club. Members of the various clubs formed the different committees, and members of the Pleasant Garden club of Pleasant township and the East Side Garden club of Prospect joined the Marion clubs as guests.

Mrs. Homer Waddell introduced the speaker, for the morning program, Mrs. Zelda Wyatt Schulke of Cleveland, specialist in flower arrangements. Her lecture was "Basis of Design in Flower Show Practice." She was one of the judges at the recent Marion flower show, and offered constructive criticism of the event as well as giving praise of the way in which the show was handled.

For luncheon at noon, Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor of the church, offered the prayer at table. The table decorations were spring flowers.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Schulke gave a brief history on flower arrangements in the United States. She stated that at the beginning of development of that art in this country 12 years ago, "we borrowed our line arrangement from the Orient, and our mass arrangement from Europe. Since then, we have displayed our own originality." Principles of good arrangement she listed as design, taste and distinction, and she recommended study of "Flowers, Their Arrangement," Condeigh, and "Design in Flower Arrangement," Arms. While she spoke, she illustrated with her own flower arrangements which included one of driftwood, yellow primrose and magnolia leaves.

Committees included the following: Mrs. Ray Gatewood and Mrs. L. D. Hamilton, Town and Country club, registration; Mrs. John Peacock, Mrs. David Polan, Mrs. Harry Lezear, Mrs. Robert Maynard, and Mrs. William Lose, Sun and Shade club table decorations; Mrs. Clarence Meister, Mrs. Cecil Davis and Mrs. Dale Miller, Green ... club, tickets.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY sprang to his feet at my smug announcement.

"Look here, wench!" he said. "Have you been holding out on me?"

"Not too much," I told him, smiling. "I gave you the high lights but I didn't tell you about the last explosions of temperament."

Harry Underwood was behind his friend now, his powerful hands gripping Dicky's shoulder.

"I may be getting past my prime," he said, "but I'm a dangerous man when I'm crossed, and if you interrupt this yarn again, you'll have to have a plastic surgeon to do a job of face restoring."

He turned Dicky around — I knew that my husband was making no real resistance to his friend's foolery — and propelled him to his chair.

"Not another word out of you," he said. "Get going, Madge!"

"There isn't much more," I told them, "but—the rest of the yarn has a special quality. When Georges recovered from his apparently very real job at the prospect of marrying Olina without having to worry about the state of Mary's affections, he got another attack of conscience, and told me that he would have to tell Olina what he had thought and planned and beg for forgiveness."

"He parried my objections," I went on, "by asking me if I would ever forgive my husband for keeping such a thing from me, if his place and Dicky's were reversed. I told him, truthfully, that if Dicky ever had made a similar fool of himself, I never would have forgiven him if he had told me the truth. When I added that no woman could forgive a statement of that kind, and assured him that there would be no wedding if he followed the 'promptings of his conscience,' he finally gave up that idea. Then when we began to discuss the wedding arrangements, he had a little upsurge of the jealousy he always has felt of Noel because of that old betrothal to Olina. When I told him that Olina wished Mary to be her matron of honor and Faith her flower girl, I brought up the question of the best man, being very careful, at Olina's behest, not to mention that she had suggested Noel for that position.

"He was very adroit," I said. "He pointed out that he could not have strange musicians at a secret ceremony, that Noel was an exceptional pianist, and the only real musician in the household. He suggested that Noel take care of the music, and that Mr. 'K' act as best man. This in spite of the fact that only a few minutes before he had been giving a realistic exhibition of an outraged monarch rebuking the FBI man for lese majeste."

"Now I hope I've heard everything," Lillian commented.

"There's only one thing," I said. "You aren't going to like it, but in justice to Georges it must be said, and Dicky will bear me out in it."

"Justice to Georges!" Katharine hooted.

"Mind if I take over, Madge?" Dicky asked.

"Oh, if you only would!" I breathed gratefully.

"Please forgive me folks, for butting in," my husband said, but I know you'd never believe Madge if she told you this, because of her general reputation for wiping away the tears of the under dog—"

"Such wonderful imagery!" Katharine murmured.

"Quiet, no whispering in the back seats!" he commanded.

"But I'm here to tell you that Georges wasn't just indulging his ego when he pulled those stunts. He really was sincere, and suffering. His conscience was accusing him, and he believed he was speaking the truth about Mary."

In Plain Words — By James Marlow

... ABC on Palestine ... Jewish-Arab war. ... size of Vermont, ... with the Medi- ... one size, a great ... other. It's been ... land-bridge between ... south and the great ... like Babylonia, which sprang up and died north and northeast of it.

James Marlow

Camel trains and armies, heading north or south, barged through Palestine, using it as a highway or a battlefield.

For tens of thousands of years men have moved in, settled down, been crushed or ousted by others coming behind them.

About 1,200 B.C. the Jews, a Semitic tribe, strode in from the desert. They overran another Semitic tribe, the Canaanites, who were there before them.

(People, like Jews and Arabs, are called Semites only because they speak closely related languages called Semitic. They are not a special race.

(Race experts call them Mediterranean People," because of their dark hair and eyes, to distinguish them, say from Europe's alone Nordics.)

By 1,030 B.C. the Jews were able to set up their first kingdom in Palestine under Saul. Came golden days, crushing defeats. The Romans wiped out their state in 37 B.C.

Then the Jews, once desert-wanderers, became world-wanderers, persecuted, discriminated against, homeless, but they remembered their home land.

(Once the Jews, like other desert peoples, had worshipped idols. When they moved into Palestine in 1,200 B.C. they had developed a belief in one God, Yahweh. They still worship one God.

(The Arabs, made up of many desert tribes, did a lot of idol-worshipping as late as 600 A.D., about that time, or 1,300 years after the Jews had found one God, Mohammed, an Arab, converted his fellow-Arabs into a belief in one God also, Allah.

(The great gulf between Jews and Arabs is religious, not racial.)

In 1897, sick of being persecuted strangers in the world, Jews formed the Zionist organization to get back their homeland. Zion means Jerusalem. The Zionists have been campaigning ever since.

There have always been some Jews in Palestine but the Arabs there, and in all the countries around it, far outnumbered them.

AT THE TIME of the first World War the Turks, Mohammedan believers in Allah, had Palestine. The British whipped the Turks in 1917.

In 1923 the League of Nations gave Palestine to Britain as a mandate. Which means Britain was to run it until the people living there found some way of running it themselves.

The British let some Jews flow into Palestine. The Arabs protested bloodily. Since 1923 a dozen world commissions have been set up to study the problem of letting the Jews have a nation or government, side by side with the Arabs, in Palestine. No solution was found.

Then last year Britain told the United Nations she'd give up her mandate and take her troops out of Palestine by May 15, 1948. Britain for a quarter of a century had troops there to keep peace.

ON NOV. 29, 1947—with the backing of the United States and Russia—UN voted to partition Palestine, split it in half between Arabs and Jews.

That started fierce fighting between Jews and Arabs. On March 19, 1948, the United States reversed its stand on partition and asked the UN to set up another mandate, called a trusteeship.

Warren Austin, chief American delegate to the UN, said heavy fighting and chaos would result when Britain got out on May 15. Between March 19 and May 15 the fighting got worse.

On May 15 the British withdrew. The Jews immediately declared Palestine an independent Jewish state called Israel (God rules). But the UN still hadn't agreed on a trusteeship.

And on May 15 President Truman announced this country recognizes the new Jewish state. The fighting grew worse. The Arab world closed in on Palestine. This is the Arab world and the Jewish set-up in Palestine:

SEVEN ARAB STATES—Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon, Yemen—formed an Arab League in March, 1945.

The total Arab population of those seven nations, including the Arabs in Palestine, is about 34,000,000.

The Jews in Palestine number about 600,000. The Jewish fighting force—called Haganah (defense)—total about 85,000.

Only five of the seven Arab states are now moving against the Jews in Palestine. They are Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Trans-Jordan, Iraq. Their total fighting force is only about 90,000.

(If Saudi Arabia and Yemen join the fight, they'll add only about 18,000 fighters.)

Right now Palestine is split into Jewish and Arab areas. The Jewish area: 5,500 square miles, the Arab area, 4,500 square miles.

One thing in favor of the Jews, there's jealousy among the Arab states. The UN is talking of finding a way to stop the fighting.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Condition Due to Unhappiness

As we all know, happyness is a great tonic. The bad effects of chronic dissatisfaction with life are less readily demonstrated, but now and then we do see disorders which are traceable directly to this cause.

One such condition seems particularly to affect young women. Their chief complaint is shortness of breath together with a feeling of tightness in the chest and noticeable beating of the heart. Attacks of this sort do not last long but they may recur on and off for weeks at a time.

These patients frequently consult the doctor because they fear a possible heart condition. Careful physical examination, however, will reveal nothing wrong with either their heart or lungs, and questioning brings out the fact that such patients do not become short of breath as the result of exertion, as do those with organic heart disease. Furthermore, the attacks rarely come on when their attention is fixed elsewhere, that is, when they are busy and interested in their work.

Almost uniformly, these women are nervous over-tensed, and basically unhappy. These traits have undermined morale and made them a prey to unreasoning fears. Often the reassurance of the doctor that nothing is seriously amiss with the heart is enough to banish the attacks, but sometimes help in eliminating severe emotional disturbance is also necessary.

A more serious form of the condition is one in which deep, sighing breathing is prolonged or is replaced by rapid, deep and forceful breathing. This may cause the patient to become light-headed and tingling or numbness in the fingers and toes may develop.

In these patients, the background of unhappiness or trouble is more evident. Often there is a history of family illness or overwork. The attacks may be brought on by pain coming from various causes.

In treating this more serious condition, it is necessary for the physician to gain the patient's confidence and explain to her just what is occurring.

Controlling the breathing at the beginning of an attack, deliberate avoidance of rapid breathing, or holding the breath a little, all may help prevent or break up a threatened attack.

Of course, an attempt must be made to find the underlying emotional troubles and to get rid of them. Any physical disorders must be discovered and treated. With sympathetic and tactful handling by the physician it is possible to clear up this type of disturbance.

Shortness of breath may also indicate some disturbance of the heart or lungs. Hence, when it occurs there is always need for a thorough study by a physician. When the exact cause of the disturbance is found proper treatment may be carried out.

Palestine Truce

THE declared purpose of the United States in dealing with events in Palestine is a truce between the hostile factions.

To that end, the provisional government of the new Jewish state of Israel has been given diplomatic recognition. If, there should emerge a provisional government of the Arab faction, it too would be entitled to recognition on the same basis.

The United States has not always seen its duty to deal with new governments so clearly. There have been times when it handicapped itself needlessly by withholding diplomatic recognition long after recognition should have been given. It is the most direct way to maintain contact with the persons and groups whose confidence must be gained before the United States can live up to its obligations as a major power.

In the background of diplomatic recognition of Palestine is the fact the United States always has favored establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine. It supported the Balfour declaration. It has supported the efforts of Jews who laid the groundwork for a Jewish homeland—not always to the extent that the Jews desired but within reasonable limits.

This government is not hostile to the Arabs in Palestine. It believes they can live with the Jews, if not in harmony then at least in a condition of truce. Any government which would wilfully add anything to the animosity between the two groups would be untrue to its people.

Mr. Truman's Handicap

WITHIN a few hours after publication of a congressional economic report reflecting the Republican party's support of free initiative, President Truman was telling a rally of Democrats in Washington that he wants more government control of economic affairs.

This is going to be the key issue of the 1948 election. Mr. Truman's handicap as the Democratic candidate is the fact his own party is split wide open over it—not just government control of economic affairs but increasing federal authority over everything. That's why he is at odds with southerners over civil rights. It's why northern Democrats are wishing they could replace him with another candidate.

Mr. Truman is no more acceptable to them in the position he has taken than he is to the extremists who have followed Henry Wallace out of the disorganized camp of the New Deal. The Wallace followers want to go all the way toward statism. At the other end of the political spectrum are Jeffersonian Democrats who don't want to go toward statism at all. The split between the two factions has broken up the New Deal coalition, leaving Mr. Truman stranded in the middle but leaning "a little left of center," as Franklin D. Roosevelt once described his position.

The difference between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman is that Mr. Roosevelt was the greatest vote-getter of his time. His political coattails were long and worth hanging on to in an election year. That was the secret of the New Deal coalition. Mr. Truman's coattails, if any, are short. As many observers have pointed out, the most important thing about the 1948 national election is going to be the fact Mr. Roosevelt won't be running. Voters' decisions will be made on a basis of issues, not personalities—and on the issue of statism vs. free initiative Mr. Truman can't even carry his own political party.

Gromyko on Vacation

THE circumstantial evidence that Andrei A. Gromyko is being replaced as Russia's United Nations representative by Jacob Malik will add fuel to American wishfulness about a possible change in Russian policy.

This wishfulness, however, needs to be carefully controlled. It is one thing to wish that the USSR might become friendlier, but it is another thing to wish for friendliness so hard as to develop blind spots that shut out reality.

The policy makers in the Kremlin have positive ways of proving to the United Nations and to the United States that they have decided to change their tactics—if they have. Besides the channels of diplomacy, which the U.S. ambassador to Russia has reassured them are always open, they have their own published and broadcast statements. Whenever they quit haranguing their own people and anyone else who might be listening to create bitterness against the United States, that would be a positive sign. Another positive sign would be a softening of their relentless antagonism in the areas where their agents are in direct contact with other governments.

The United Nations is one of those areas. Mr. Malik will come to Lake Success with fresh instructions. It remains to be seen whether they are the same ones that Mr. Gromyko had, that Mr. Vishinsky had, that Foreign Minister Molotov had—to say no.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Quick Review of the Presidential Situation.

AS THE situation stands, the Republican race is more or less what it has been all along, between Taft and Dewey. The Stassen blitz has not blitzed. It has produced an amazing amount of hard feeling; it has stimulated several third ballot candidates, such as Senator Vandenberg and Speaker Joe Martin. But it has not put Harold Stassen in the lead.

His Ohio attempt, an inevitable failure, served to create the impression not only of bad judgment but of bad manners. Every human activity produces its own rules of good conduct. By all the rules of good conduct in American politics Ohio should have been regarded as Robert A. Taft's bailiwick. Even were he not one of the outstanding candidates, he should justly have come into the Republican convention as Ohio's favorite son, as Dewey will come into it as New York's favorite son. It would not have hurt Stassen's chances on the second or third ballot had he shown Taft the polite consideration to which all fairminded men believe him to be entitled. Stassen chose the blitz technique which raises, in the Republican atmosphere, the specter of Wendell Willkie with his entourage of political carpet-baggers and New York millionaires and their playboy sons. Nobody wants more of that.

SOKOLSKY

So, Taft got 44 votes in Ohio and Stassen got nine and his statewide candidate trailed hopelessly. It is obvious that Stassen cannot carry Ohio as he cannot carry New York. How can he be elected? Yet the only argument of his protagonists is that his charming personality makes his election inevitable.

Wallace Losing out

The Wallace candidacy is losing color and enthusiasm. He will, of course, have the Communist and fellow-traveler vote, but the CIO and the AFL are fighting him harder than they are fighting any other candidate, including Senator Taft. This seems not to be understandable to the Communists, who had hoped to roll in some members of congress as a result of Wallace's candidacy. This is not likely to happen, outside of New York City where local politicians and public officials have not yet washed their hands clean.

Curiously, Wallace's chief opponent is Joe Stalin. Every time the Russians pull a fast one, Wallace loses strength on the outer fringe of the left wing. That is, the so-called smart people who left sex for politics and called themselves "liberals," are suddenly finding their affiliations most embarrassing. They had hoped to prolong their liberalism by supporting Wallace against Truman. Taft and Dewey, they despise. They shifted first to Eisenhower and then to Stassen. Eisenhower declined to run, in spite of all their propaganda of drafting him, and Stassen has now made anti-Communism his favorite plank, so that on that issue he proclaims himself to the right of the Thomas committee and J. Edgar Hoover. And that is an amazing turnabout.

Difficulties Appear

These crypto-liberals have no place to go, and dance back to Wallace, and then Zhadonv issues proclamations outlawing the kind of music that they adored for so many years and Molotov is ill-mannered, and it grows increasingly difficult to be both a Communist and an American. So they do not know what to do or where to go. They are perplexed. In simpler language, they look like fools.

Meanwhile, brother Truman goes his way, challenging every precept in Dale Carnegie's book on how to win friends. Truman makes no new friends and drives away old ones, but that does not mean that he will be defeated. The Republicans will have to find a stirring and sincere campaign slogan, something to stimulate and excite the American people. Mark Hanna won an election on "The Full Dinner Pail." That meant something clear-cut and specific when William McKinley was elected. The slogan that "Truman was a Haberdasher" will not defeat the little man's president. What this country needs is not, as Vice President Marshall once said, a good five-cent cigar. It needs to believe in itself and its destiny. The candidate who finds the way to make that a political issue has some chance of defeating Truman. It is six of one and six of the other—Truman may even slip through.

Politics in California

By Raymond Moley

LOS ANGELES—An Easterner asked a Californian here the other day whether he thought the Republican presidential lightning might strike Governor Warren. The answer was that California is putting up so many lightning rods that the state looks like a prickly pear.

Warren himself, his supporters and most of the people you meet in the street are in dead earnest this time. They want the nomination for Warren, the state and the West. From now on, there will be a great deal of activity. It has been reported that no organization and no money will be raised to promote Warren's candidacy. This is not true. There will be plenty of drive and plenty of what is essential to drive. There is not the ruthless practicality among California Republicans that characterizes those of some other states. But what the Warren promoters at the Philadelphia convention will lack in Machiavellian skill will be made up in enthusiasm.

MOLEY

Warren's reluctance to seek the nomination has seriously handicapped his supporters until now. He has steadfastly refused to enter the primaries or actively to solicit delegates in other states. For two years his supporters have tried to induce him to make more speeches and public appearances in the East and the Midwest. They have wanted to put on a national publicity campaign. And they have attempted to have him consent to a solid western bloc of delegates from the 11 neighboring states. All this he has vetoed until now.

No Mere Gesture

Warren has let it be known that he would welcome the nomination and that his candidacy in California is no mere gesture. The delegation is a thoroughly Warren group. Every name passed his approval.

Contrary to rumors circulating in the East, there is no suggestion of a deal of any sort for the second-choice votes of the California delegation. In the Philadelphia convention the California delegation intends to vote for Warren for many ballots, because its candidate is a long shot, and the time for long shots is after several other possibilities have been eliminated.

Warren people are not talking about second choices. But it is a fact that there is less disposition to lean toward Stassen than to any of the other well-known candidates. Californians are very touchy about outside candidates even hinting that they may enter the California primary. Such a hint was made in behalf of Stassen, and it was bitterly resented. It has definitely injured the Minnesota man's chance of California support in the later stages of the national convention. Taft, Dewey or even Vandenberg would be more favorably considered.

Democratic Situation

As usual, Democratic affairs in California are in a deplorable state. James Roosevelt, state chairman, in an important speech recently omitted the President's name—a momentous error in the political book of rules. Inadvertently, perhaps, he mentioned Eisenhower, which evoked an ovation.

However, Truman plans to come out here in June to speak at a press association meeting in Los Angeles and at the University of California in Berkeley. His journey will follow a perilous path of possible political pitfalls. He will have to meet the right kind of Democrats and avoid the wrong kind of Democrats. In California, the two are scarcely distinguishable. From day to day the authenticity of members of the party changes. And the Wallace people will omit no effort to embarrass the President.

The Wallace people, it should be added, are quarreling. Robert Kenny, the first plumed knight of the Wallace party, seems to have been unhorsed already. Nevertheless, Wallace will probably get 300,000 or 400,000 votes. It promises to be a dismal and unprofitable visit for the President, but perhaps he will enjoy the climate.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

Doesn't She Know The Words To "Dixie?"

Margaret Truman will give no more concerts until after the November election.

Come now, her voice isn't that bad.

In fact, Margaret might well be what Harry needs to offset Glen Taylor and his banjo.

Incidentally, Henry Wallace's running mate has a ready-made campaign song. Or is there a copyright on "Birmingham Jail?"

Of course, Miss Truman may have just decided to accept my suggestion and postpone her musical career until after the first of the year, when she'll probably be able to get an accompanist without going out of the family.

Not sing until after November? What makes her think she'll feel like it then?

Against Wrinkles

Substances that tend to return to their original shape after deformation are said to have "nerve" or "memory." Chemists have been working on improving these qualities of fibers in textiles (and perhaps paper) as a way to prevent wrinkles and folds. Treatment involves penetrating the filaments to strengthen their determination to snap back, also lubrication to help them snap.

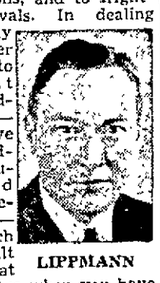
Next Possible Muddle

By Walter Lippmann

IF THE administration is not careful, it is going to get into another messy muddle—this time with Great Britain. On the critically important matter of our relations with the sterling area, Mr. Harriman in a press interview in London has said that we are considering our policy without saying what our policy is.

Now the exchange rate of the dollar and the pound sterling—the two leading currencies of the world—is known to be vulnerable, subject to speculative raids, to illicit transactions, and to frightened withdrawals. In dealing with a highly sensitive matter of this kind to announce that you are considering a policy—before you have in fact considered it, formulated it, and reached agreement about it—is to make much more difficult the problem that you hope to solve when you have considered your policy.



LIPPMANN

This is emphatically a subject which no one with Mr. Harriman's responsibility ought to say anything about publicly until full agreement has been reached in private between the British government and the American on the rate at which we are prepared to make the pound and the dollar freely convertible. The mere suggestion that in this matter there could be an American policy, as distinct from a British-American policy, is dangerous, and should promptly be disavowed.

For the world's business, and the European Recovery Program, require a joint solution of the problem of the pound and the dollar, and the merest hint that the administration could consider a unilateral American policy is to introduce a new element of disorder into a situation which is very precarious.

Here again, as in the Smith-Molotov episode, there is no lack of good intentions, but a surprising want of the knowledge of how great public affairs are conducted. Would any one who had to run a country bank announce in the newspapers that some day, when he got around to it, he would announce plans for reorganization of the bank? Or would any one who wished to talk privately on an important matter fail to make it clear that the conversation was meant to be private?

Matter for Thought

The Smith-Molotov episode, and the spectacle in Washington which followed it, show, it seems to me, that the most urgent business of the State Department is to think out carefully how it is going to conduct its diplomacy. The "American policy makers" would do well to take time out from policy making in order to make up their minds the technique and procedure of diplomatic intercourse, not only with Russia but also with our partners and allies.

For that is where they came a cropper in this recent affair. It is quite true that Ambassador Smith's statement to Molotov marked no change in American policy on any question at issue. But it marked the adoption of a different procedure and technique for dealing with the Soviet government. It was an experiment in the revival of the classic method of diplomacy—which is to exchange carefully drafted documents that are treated as confidential until there is an agreement to publish them. This diplomatic method is in constant use as between the United States and Great Britain, France, and almost every other country, including the Arab states and the Russian satellite states. In minor matters it is used even with the Soviet Union.

The novelty in the affair of May 4 was the use of this same method to begin discussions of the great issues which have proved insoluble in the conferences and in the UN.

Question of Trust

There is no reason to suppose that Mr. Molotov would have refused to try the method if it had been made plain to him that we were trying a different method. It is said that you cannot trust the Russians and that if it suited them they would have published the statements. They could not and would not have published our statement if it had been preceded by an inquiry as to whether the Soviet government cared to receive a confidential statement which was not to be published except by agreement. And there would have been no misunderstanding in London and Paris if in the inquiry we had also said that we intended to communicate the contents of the statement to London and Paris as soon as we had received a reply from Mr. Molotov.

These details of procedure cannot be neglected in diplomacy. Without them, a policy, however well conceived, can be as embarrassing as a suit of clothes, however well designed, on which the tailor has forgotten to sew the buttons.

Because of the talk about the snow.)

Were more than he needed, everyone knows
One little eight was all he required
To keep the people dancing until they [illegible]
He's known from Vancouver and Dallas to Hoosic
And other far points by the name Master Music.

His mind is a keyboard
His heart is a cello
He presses a button and
Out comes tunes mellow;
He's a master of rythym
And master of lilt
And nothing he writes
Can shrink, fade much, or wilt.

Some men write a song once a year that appeals
But he writes a dozen or two between meals
Some fellows are known for one tune that will stick
It's a hundred a year for this guy, or [illegible] sick!

Dozens were written by Foster, old Stephen—
But not for one year with Berlin is he even
King of the jukebox and levels much higher
Sung in the bistro, the home and the [illegible]
Danced to by young folks and danced to by old,
Berlin's one finger can wonders unfold.

You can have Beethoven, Whoozis and Straus—
(Berlin is better for warming a house).
You can have Wagner and Liszt and Chopin—
Irving for me on the twice daily plan
You can have Mozart, you can have Bach—
Give me Berlin for a tune with a sock!

You can have Schubert, you can have Verdi
How do they sound on a street hurdy-gurdy?
You can have Gounod, Rossini and Gluck
Me and my gal like the Berlin new look.

Born on the East side and played on the west,
North side and south side and all of the rest,
He began life, so they say, as a writer
Nobody's speed from that job was much greater!

Up to the heights went the one-time tinpanner
Carrying all the way up his planner;
Making a nation feel light on its feet
Causing the drabness in life to turn sweet,
Globally aiding the cause of good strumming,
Makin the world seem okay when it's humming!

Berlin, a toast to you now at three score
And one to the finger of music-world lore
A long life to both and to each one more power—
How many hits did you write the last hour?

How about singing it "The Stars and Stripes Forever"?

Down With Shills

By TRUMAN TWILL

Another thing about a national election [illegible] that makes some citizens want to stay in bed with the bedroom door locked until it's over is the glamor boys and girls.

They'll be in the thick of the campaign, as usual, telling their betters how to vote, mugging for photographers, haunting the countryside, in newsreels and the television studios, trying to make friends and influence voters.

At the last minute they'll gang up on coast-to-coast broadcasts to purr praises and sweet poison, according to whatever orders they have received from the puppet masters who tell them what to do on pain of punishment or in hope of reward.

They will croon, roll their eyes and R's, compose their features for the camera and recite adroit little speeches in pear-shaped tones to influence the outcome of what needs to be a solemn decision lest it become a farce, which they've been doing their best to make it.

There's no reason why a movie cutie, a professional pug, a ballplayer, a street sweeper, a beauty contest winner shouldn't have an opinion about politics. They have the same rights as housewives, professional persons, war veterans, pressure bloc members, lunatic fringers, bureaucrats, businessmen and loafers, whose composite opinions become the will of the people.

But they have no special rights. Being well known doesn't make them any smarter. The mere fact they have been publicized for prowess with their fists, photogenic features, or adaptability to certain peculiar circumstances does not qualify them to tell any one how to vote. On the contrary, the fact most of them are native-born or naturalized citizens of the United States should prompt them to behave with dignity owing to the election processes of society that has been kinder to them than they deserve.

It is early to start gagging about the prospect that the antics of the glamor goons this year will be no easier to take than they were in 1944 and 1940, but it's a horrible prospect even when still remote. Certainly no one but the most hopeless cynic could look dispassionately at attempts to sway the votes of decent Americans by asking them to follow tinseled Judases to the polling places.

This writer never has gone into a movie theater showing the face of one especially odious shill whose antics in the presidential campaign of 1940 were enough to sicken a hyena. It is barely possible this is part of the business that hasn't been showing up at the boxoffice lately. It's barely possible the glamor boys and girls from the movie colony will stay in bed with the bedroom door locked until the national election's over this year too—in single rooms, if [illegible] boot, and by request of the people who have their contracts.

TEACHER IS CHOSEN TO WORK IN FRANCE

Special to The Star

GALION, May 17—A Galion teacher, Miss Verlie Smith, who has taught religious education in the Galion schools for the last three years, has the distinction of being chosen one of five in the United States and one of two from the state of Ohio, to go to Europe this summer to work with children who have suffered ill effects from the war.

The invitation to Miss Smith came from Le Chambon, France, a refugee area in southern France. The other Ohio girl, Gertrude Von Reisen, a religious education teacher in Darke county, will go to Children's Village, Switzerland.

Miss Smith is a native of North Carolina and was graduated from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., in religious training. Prior to coming to Galion three years ago, she conducted Daily Vacation Bible schools in the states of Idaho and Washington. She also worked in the mountain areas in western North Carolina, (Linville), and at Raeford, on the sea coast of North Carolina. Her work in these areas was with children.

In France she will conduct a Daily Vacation Bible school, camp work, hikes, service projects, and games for the children, sharing with them her American experiences. The object of her work is to break down fear and anxiety in the children who suffered such complexes during the war, and to offer a philosophy of life, Christian religion, to help relieve the tension brought on by the war.

Miss Smith will sail June 17 on the Marine Tiger, returning either Aug. 26 or Sept. 21.

Church groups of the city have contributed toward Miss Smith's expenses for the trip.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS OF CHURCH HOLD BANQUET

Tiny Japanese figures stood among the little blooming Japanese cherry trees which extended the length of the tables. Inverted coolie hats served as mint cups to mark the places. Mrs. Wayne Murray was chairman of the dining room.

The program consisted of the traditional toasts with musical numbers interspersed. Rev. Milton Lashley was guest speaker. Mrs. Minnie Van Asbeck was in charge of the program and Mrs. Paul Clements supervised the kitchen. Mrs. Alva Gantt is the president of the WSWS.

GOVERNOR DEMANDS PACKERS' STRIKE END

By The Associated Press

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., May 17—Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl demanded a quick settlement of the meat packing strike in Minnesota as he summoned packers and strikers to his office today.

If the strike is not settled promptly, the governor said, "I shall be forced to consider other measures in the public interest."

He did not elaborate and refused to comment when a reporter asked if this meant he might close the packing plants, strike-bound since March 16.

The governor made the summons yesterday after ordering National Guardsmen to another strikebound packing plant at Albert Lea, Minn., 100 miles south of here.

About 1,000 workers of the Wilson and company plant who are members of the CIO United Packing House Workers union are on strike there.

Meanwhile, armed militia men patrolled South St. Paul streets and watched livestock trucks roll into market for the first time in nine days. There were no incidents as the first trucks arrived.

The National Guardsmen were first called Friday after two sheriffs in the South St. Paul area reported they were unable to maintain peace.

4 FLIERS DIE IN TWO OHIO ACCIDENTS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 17—Four fliers were killed in two air accidents in central Ohio yesterday.

W. R. McCauley, Fort Dodge, Ia., and Jack Raymond Foote, Chicago, both employed by Slick Airways Inc., died in a crash of their two-engined cargo plane in woods east of Port Columbus airport last night.

Earlier, two naval reserve fliers from the Columbus field—Lt. (jg) William G. Smith, 24, of Newark, O., and Lt. (jg) Theodore L. Meyer, 26, of Columbus—crashed while on training flights. Both were Navy fliers during World War II.

The cargo plane was enroute from Newark, N. J., to Chicago with a shipment of women's and children's clothing. Shortly before 9 p. m. it radioed Port Columbus control tower that it had lost its rudder and was going to attempt a landing. Investigators said later, however, that the wreckage indicated the rudder was jammed, not lost.

The plane made two landing attempts before falling into the woods. The first time its wheels just missed the runway and the pilot brought it up for another try. The second time the wheels touched briefly but the pilot apparently felt it was traveling too fast and would hit a fence.

You made us weep and cry
But, oh! the saddest part of all.

He little thought when leaving home
He would return no more.
That he in death would sleep alone
And leave us here to mourn.

AUTO STRIKE MAY BE STEEL SHORTAGE AID

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 17 — The auto strike might loosen some scarce metal for hard-pressed buyers of civilian goods, the magazine Steel said today.

Steel, a trade publication, said additional allocations of steel for certain non-defense purposes might be made available to the supply situation.

The magazine said the pressure on supplies probably would be lifted if the auto strike continues sufficiently long that the company says it would temporarily curtail production of steel shortages.

Steel said operations, back at 94½ per cent of capacity, still won't allow enough for everyone, however, Steel reported.

Industrial gas curtailments and the coal mine strike, for one thing, enforced reduced third quarter shipment quotas, the magazine said.

"More recently, it said, steelmakers soon will experience additional production cutbacks as a result of vacations in the mills and possible (and then) coal miners' strike."

On prices, Steel reported:

"Further progress is being made toward downward adjustment of steel prices, with various important producers following the lead of U. S. Steel Corp., although not in all cases on the same products or to the same extent.

"Other producers have scheduled action, but are under review although some are doing certain small tonnage independents indicate they may take no action now."

Marion Cubs Drop Two of Three Weekend Games to Newark Yankees

Hope for Better Luck in Series With Zanesville Starting Tuesday

Special to The Star

NEWARK, May 17—The Marion Cubs rested today before they begin an invasion of Zanesville Tuesday night where they hope to be more fortunate than they were in their week end visit here.

The cellar-dwelling Newark Yankees defeated Marion twice in the three games.

Marion's lone victory was registered in Sunday's afternoon game as Frank Marchelli, a southpaw, was tough in the clutches and he shaded the Yankees 2 to 1. Newark won the night contest 8 to 1.

The Yanks collected seven hits off Marchelli and Len Dube and Dick McEvoy checked the Cubs with only three. All of Marion's singles were doubles however.

Newark won the series opener Saturday night 6 to 3 behind Dick Murphy's steady pitching. He pitched hitless ball until Brackens lead off the seventh inning with a pop single to centerfield.

Nick Allvojvodic was handed his first defeat, his wildness in the early innings proving his downfall. He walked six batters, five of them in the first three innings.

Marion's winning run in the opener Sunday was unearned.

It was scored in the fifth inning with one out. Schmitt was awarded first base on Cather's interference for the second time in game. Bohlander followed with a double driving in what proved to be the winning marker.

Newark jumped on Ray Bergemeister and Frank DeLuca for 13 hits in the deciding game Sunday night. Included among the Newark hits were three doubles and three triples. Ellis Norton allowed the Cubs only six hits, four of them in the last two frames.

VET RACER KILLED. Ralph Hepburn, 52, of Van Nuys, Cal., long a star of the annual 500-mile auto races, was fatally injured at the Indianapolis speedway on Sunday, when in a practice spin, his Novi-Governor special crashed into the north turn retaining wall and pinned him in the wreckage. He suffered a crushed chest and fractured skull. Witnesses said he was traveling more than 130 miles an hour when the crash occurred. He is married and the father of two children.

VETERAN DRIVER KILLED IN CRASH

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17 — Ralph Hepburn, 52, crippled and scarred veteran of 30 years automobile and motorcycle racing, was killed yesterday when his car crashed into a wall at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The 51-year-old Van Nuys, Calif., driver was practicing for his 16th attempt to win the annual 500-mile Memorial day race.

Hepburn crashed into a concrete retaining wall with the Novi Special he had driven faster than any other car that ever roared around the two-and-a-hale-mile track.

Most of the estimated crowd of 40,000 could not see what happened because of infield trees. But Luigi Chinetti of Milan, Italy, only foreign driver at the track, said Hepburn's car wavered, hit the infield dirt, and then swerved back across the track.

Hepburn was the 21st driver killed at the track since 1910.

Lou Welch of Novi, Mich., owners of the Hepburn car, said no attempt would be made to repair it for this year's race, May 31.

FIRES PERFECT SCORE IN RIFLE MATCH

By The Associated Press

CIRCLEVILLE, O., May 17—Fred Eakins of Columbus fired a perfect 800 score yesterday in the Central Ohio Rifle league's first outdoor match of the season.

Using a .22 caliber rifle, he placed 80 shots in the bull's-eye from distances of 50, 75, 100 and 200 yards. He used iron sights for 40 shots and a telescopic sight for the remainder.

It was the first perfect score for the 50-75-100-200 course in the league's history.

Anna Lou Barker of Chillicothe, using iron sights exclusively, missed a perfect 800 by two points.

GENE FLEMING SETS NEW RECORD

Breaks Old Shot Put Mark at District Meet.

Eugene Fleming of Caledonia accounted for one of the four new class B records hung up at the Central District track meet at Ohio Wesleyan's Selby field Saturday by putting the shot 49 feet, two inches, one inch over the mark made by Jonnson of Prospect in 1927.

Fleming's first place, together with Robert McKeever's first in the pole vault (10 feet, three inches) gave Caledonia 12 of their 17½ points to put the Marion county school fifth in the red hot class B race which was won by Worthington with 47 points.

Pleasant's Charles Mavers won the broad jump with a 20 foot, six inch leap, and Charles Manring of Tully came in second in the mile.

These four boys will represent Marion county in the state track meet.

The other three records smashed Saturday were the discus, thrown 138 feet, 11 inches by Grant Cook of University; the 120 yard low hurdles won by Hugh Rittenhouse of University in 0:15.2, who also broke the 220 low hurdle record with a 0:24.9 race.

Other placers on Caledonia's team were Jim Ray, tie for fifth in the high jump; Paul Drake, third in the discus and fifth in the 100 yard dash, and the 880 yard relay team which placed fifth.

Merle Hilbourne of Morral placed fifth in the 120 yard high hurdles and Vernon Chapman of Richwood placed fifth in the shot put.

University school finished second with 43½ points, Reynoldsburg third with 39, and Gahanna Lincoln fourth with 26½.

Newark 32, Columbus West 31½; Columbus North 25, Columbus East, 21, Upper Arlington 15, Westerville, 12, Columbus South, 10, Mt. Vernon, 7, Bexley, 3, Circleville 2, Linden McKinley 2, Grandview and Columbus Rosery, 0; and Delaware Wilis 0.

Pitching: Earl Johnson, Red Sox—Stopped the Senators with two hits and no runs in 5 2/3 innings as the Red Sox overcame a 5-1 deficit to win 14-5. Johnson relieved starter Jack Kramer after the Senators had combed the righthander for all their runs.

Tribe May Have Found Solution To Pitching Problem in Bill Kennedy

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 17—Rookie Bill Kennedy may be at least a partial solution to the Cleveland Indians' problem of where to find a [illegible] starting pitchers.

The 25-year-old former Akron resident made his first big league appearance yesterday during relief duty for seven innings in the second game of the Tribe's [illegible] with the Chicago White Sox.

He completed throttled the Sox during that period and struck out [illegible] men more than any pitcher has accomplished in an entire game this season.

[illegible] he gave up five hits [illegible] in the eighth and was relieved by Steve Gromek. Kennedy's performance was one of the bright spots of the two games Cleveland [illegible] the opener, 6 to 4 but won the nightcap, 9 to 2 with Kennedy gaining credit for the victory.

The timing of the end was partly [illegible] by the fact that it was the first time this year, including spring training that Kennedy had pitched more than four innings. He came to the Indians after pitching with Toronto and Scranton last year. In 1946 with Rocky Mount of the Coastal Plains league, he struck out 456 men.

The White Sox sent two men [illegible] in the 10th frame to take the opener after Bob Lemon of the Tribe was relieved by Russ Christopher in the eighth. It was the first victory for Chicago in the team's last 10 games.

Four of Cleveland's runs in the second game were gained through [illegible]. Joe Gordon walloped one with none on in the third and Ken Keltner followed in the seventh. One man was aboard when Eddie Robinson connected for an circuit clout in the eighth.

The Indians had an off day today. They will meet the Philadelphia Athletics here in a [illegible] game tomorrow.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 17 — A slow decline got under way in the stock market today and last week's bull market was at least temporarily checked.

Losses of fractions to around a point were in large majority as the full force of the Friday-Saturday buying spree appeared to have spent itself.

Lower quotations appeared for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Packard (after opening unchanged on a block of 13,200 shares), Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Sinclair Oil, Mission Corp, Texas Co., International Paper, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Kennecott Copper, Schenley, Caterpillar Tractor and Goodyear.

Profit taking sales were the main block to a carry-through of Friday's sensational advance. On Saturday the market closed with gains predominating but selling in the final hour of the short session had already hobbled what had the earmarks of a bull market on the rampage.
